

CORPORATE LITIGATION

Firon Law Firm is recognized as one of the law firms that have significantly influenced Israel's legal and economic landscape. This recognition stems from decades of successfully managing complex and financially significant legal disputes across all areas of commercial litigation, with a particular focus on corporate litigation.

Corporate litigation, a subset of commercial litigation, encompasses various aspects of corporate and business law. Our firm possesses unique expertise in representing companies and other legal entities in Israel, including company organs, controlling owners, senior officers, directors, and shareholders in complex business disputes. These disputes may involve claims of rights deprivation, derivative claims, representative claims, contractual disputes, and claims relating to relief assessment.

Litigation proceedings entail addressing a wide array of complex legal issues within the corporate realm, such as power struggles among shareholders, management disputes, disagreements regarding credit and financing, dividend distribution, transactions with stakeholders, officer and director liability disputes, and more. Corporate litigation may also be necessitated by disputes concerning various agreements, including those related to local and international investments, financing, technology transfer, joint ventures, and strategic cooperation.

The firm also boasts extensive experience in court approval procedures, including those associated with dividend distributions, mergers and acquisitions, share purchases, and settlement arrangements under sections 350 and 351 of the Companies Law. Additionally, our department's team is highly adept at managing legal proceedings involving regulatory bodies such as the Competition Authority, the Securities Authority, the Tax Authority, and others.

The remarkable success of our professional team can be attributed to our unwavering pursuit of victory and our thorough understanding of our clients' needs, coupled with a comprehensive grasp of all legal issues involved. Furthermore, each client benefits from our firm's legal and business support, facilitated by the collaborative efforts of all departments and the dedicated support of a partner assigned to each case.

Our firm's specialization in corporate litigation is underpinned by decades of serving some of Israel's largest publicly traded companies, multinational corporations, local-private and public corporations, as well as businesses and private entities across various sectors of the economy. These sectors include defense industries, real estate, infrastructure, finance, insurance, communications, healthcare, energy, tourism, retail, and more.

'Strong litigation capabilities and ability to study complicated situations and complicated technological materials.'
